University of Virginia
Charlottesville, VA

COURSE OVERVIEW

The 37th Annual Fitz-Hugh Symposium: Contemporary Management & Cutting-Edge Advances in Otolaryngology – Head & Neck Surgery is designed to update participants on current approaches and innovative progress in otolaryngology. The program features two guests of honor, both of whom are national experts in their field. In addition, there will be faculty from other UVA departments, and UVA Otolaryngology faculty who are local, regional, and national level experts. Emphasis will be placed on the practical impact of this information for the practicing otolaryngologist- head and neck surgeon.

Presenters across multiple disciplines will describe a complete approach to patient care. Each session will include an opportunity for audience participation. Participants will gain knowledge that, when applied in practice, will support improvement in outcomes in their patients.

EDUCATIONAL OBJECTIVES

At the conclusion of the head and neck endocrine surgery session, participants should be able to:

- Discuss the evolving role of surgery and radiation therapy in the treatment of head and neck endocrine disorders.
- State the latest advances and applications of minimally invasive head and neck endocrine surgery.
- Discuss recent advances in imaging and the role of PET/CT, CT, MRI, and ultrasound for patients with head and neck endocrine cancer.

At the conclusion of the otology session, participants should be able to:

- Apply specific best practice strategies for hearing rehabilitation.
- Develop an algorithm for the management of patients with significant hearing loss.
- Develop an algorithm for the management of patients with single-sided (unilateral) deafness.

DISCLOSURE OF FACULTY FINANCIAL AFFILIATIONS

The University of Virginia School of Medicine, as an ACCME accredited provider, endorses and strives to comply with the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education (ACCME) Standards of Commercial Support, Commonwealth of Virginia statutes, University of Virginia policies and procedures, and associated federal and private regulations and guidelines on the need for disclosure and monitoring of proprietary and financial interests that may affect the scientific integrity and balance of content delivered in continuing medical education activities under our auspices.

The University of Virginia School of Medicine requires that all CME activities accredited through this institution be developed independently and be scientifically rigorous, balanced and objective in the presentation/discussion of its content, theories and practices.

All faculty presenters participating in an accredited CME activity are expected to disclose relevant financial relationships with commercial entities occurring within the past 12 months (such as grants or research support, employee, consultant, stock holder, member of speakers bureau, etc.). The University of Virginia School of Medicine will employ appropriate mechanisms to resolve potential conflicts of interest to maintain the standards of fair and balanced education to the participant. Questions about specific strategies can be directed to the Office of Continuing Medical Education, University of Virginia School of Medicine, Charlottesville, Virginia.

The faculty and staff of the University of Virginia Office of Continuing Medical Education have no financial affiliations to disclose.

DISCLOSURE OF DISCUSSION OF NON FDA-APPROVED USES FOR PHARMACEUTICAL PRODUCTS AND/OR MEDICAL DEVICES

The University of Virginia School of Medicine, as an ACCME provider, requires that all faculty presenters identify and disclose any off-label uses for pharmaceutical and medical device products. The University of Virginia School of Medicine recommends that each physician fully review all the available data on new products or procedures prior to clinical use.
