The 160th Annual Meeting & House of Delegates of the North Carolina Medical Society

October 24-25, 2014 - Grandover Resort, Greensboro, NC

MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT

Welcome to the 160th North Carolina Medical Society (NCMS) Annual Meeting and House of Delegates. We are glad you've joined us for an enlightening and, we hope, inspirational two days.

As I reflect on my year as NCMS President and the impressive 166 years of this organization's history, I think of the enduring legacy of service to our patients and our communities that the NCMS represents. This year, our meeting features speakers and individuals who serve our veterans. The CME session on Friday afternoon brings together distinguished physicians and lay people who have unique insight into the many challenges facing our veterans, including access to care and clinical issues related to physical and mental health. Be sure not to miss this timely and important discussion.

We also have a special guest from the Veterans Administration in Washington, DC who will address our House of Delegates on Saturday morning. Carolyn Clancy, MD, the Interim Under Secretary for Health, will give us her perspective—as a physician and as a top official in the VA—on caring for our veterans.

Another guest speaker, State Epidemiologist Zack Moore, MD, MPH, will address Friday's House of Delegates with an update on the latest outbreaks of infectious disease and how North Carolina is preparing and responding to these threats. At the House of Delegates the issues deemed important by you and your fellow NCMS members will be debated and discussed and will help shape NCMS policies for the coming year. Please attend and weigh in with your views.

The Annual Meeting also is your time to reconnect with colleagues and to inaugurate the incoming President. Enjoy the cocktail hour and inaugural reception on Friday evening—both great opportunities to celebrate. If you're politically inclined, the NCMS PAC breakfast promises some lively discussion.

Again, welcome, and please take advantage of all the NCMS and this Annual Meeting have to offer.

Devdutta Sangvai, MD, MBA, FAAFP
NCMS President, 2013-2014

Quality Care for Veterans

Friday, October 24, 2014 - 12:00pm-2:00pm

Grandville CD

The headlines have highlighted the issues with veteran care, but what is being done to fix the problems and how can we improve care for active duty and veteran personnel? This panel discussion will increase awareness of veterans' and active duty military personnel's medical needs and available treatments. The panel of experts will examine conditions occurring at a higher rate in these populations, such as post-traumatic stress disorder and effects of traumatic brain injury as well as health care delivery issues, like excessive wait times for needed care. In addition to identifying areas of concern, discussion will include measures being taken to address the concerns.

Targeted Audience:

Physicians, physician assistants, residents and students, as well as practice staff are invited to attend this session.

Accreditation:

Course director: Palmer Edwards, MD

The Southern Regional AHEC designates this live activity for a maximum of 2.0 AMA PRA Category 1 Credit(s)TM. Physicians/PAs should claim only the credit commensurate with the extent of their participation in the activity.

Cost:

$25 for those pursuing CME credit; free for those interested in learning more about this issue, but not needing credit.

Objectives:

- Identify ways in which civilian providers can optimize medical care for veterans and active-duty military personnel.
- Partner with the Veterans Administration and other military health care delivery systems to improve wait times in VA facilities and other systems for veterans and active-duty military personnel in need of care.
- Examine medical disorders that particularly impact veterans, from psychological issues such as PTSD and higher suicide rates to physical issues such as traumatic brain injury and more.

Speakers:

Glenn Batten, Deputy Director of the North Carolina Division of Veterans Affairs

A 23-year US Navy veteran, Mr. Batten currently serves as the Deputy Director for the North Carolina Division of Veterans Affairs, a state agency that serves the veterans of North Carolina with advocacy and assistance to identify and apply for those VA benefits earned through service to their country.

Debra Bolick, MD, Psychiatrist, Salisbury W.G. (Bill) Hefner VA Medical Center; Acting Section Chief of Outpatient Mental Health, Hickory VA Community Based Outpatient Clinic, Veterans Health Affairs

Dr. Bolick currently practices adult general psychiatry, serves as Acting Section Chief of Outpatient Mental Health for the Hickory and Winston-Salem Community-Based Outpatient Clinics (CBOCS) and is on the active medical staff of the Veterans Affairs Medical Center in Salisbury. She is an active member of the NCMS and the North Carolina Psychiatric Association and serves on the North Carolina Medical Board.

Elizabeth Goolsby, MSN, Director, Fayetteville VA Medical Center

Ms. Goolsby is a retired Colonel with the Army Nurse Corp. and has served as the Medical Center Director at Fayetteville VAMC since July 4, 2010. She has the overall responsibility for planning, organizing, directing, coordinating and controlling medical, administrative and supporting operations of a health care system that administers medical care and treatment to veterans in 19 North Carolina counties and two counties in South Carolina.

Brian P. Hayes, MD, MPH, MSS, Associate Chief of Staff, Ambulatory Care, Durham VA Medical Center

Dr. Hayes, a veteran of the US Air Force, received his medical degree from the University of Miami and attended Harvard in 2001, where he earned his Masters of Public Health. He served his residency at US Air Force School of Aerospace Medicine at Brooks AFB in Texas and received his Masters of Strategic Studies at the Air War College, Maxwell AFB, Alabama.

Michael W. Brennan, MD (Moderator) Ophthalmologist, Alamance Eye Center

Dr. Brennan practices comprehensive ophthalmology in Burlington, North Carolina, after a 20-year career in the US Army. A West Point graduate, Dr. Brennan received a Masters in Aeronautics at Stanford University and served as an Army aviator in Vietnam and instructor at West Point. He received his medical degree from the University of Texas, completing his residency in ophthalmology at Brooke Army Medical Center, Ft. Sam Houston and later serving as Chief of Surgery at Fort Bragg. Dr. Brennan is past president of the North Carolina Society of Eye Physicians and Surgeons and was instrumental in developing the NCMS' Leadership College program.

HOUSE OF DELEGATES

House of Delegates Session I Friday, October 24 - 3:00pm-5:30pm

This opening session of the House features leadership elections for the coming year and preliminary discussion of House business. In addition, State Epidemiologist Zack Moore, MD, MPH, will provide an update on the Ebola and Enterovirus D68 outbreaks. Outgoing President Devdutta Sangvai, MD, MBA, FAAFP will wrap-up this session with a speech on NCMS accomplishments in 2013-2014.

Featured Speaker Friday

Zack Moore, MD, MPH

NC DHHS Medical Epidemiologist, Communicable Disease Branch

“Emerging Infections: Preparedness and Response in North Carolina”

Dr. Moore received his medical degree from UNC-CH and a master's degree in public health from Harvard University. Following residency at Stanford University, he worked with the National Immunization Program at the CDC and later completed fellowship training in Pediatric Infectious Diseases at Emory University. Dr Moore began working with the NC Division of Public Health in 2006 as an officer with the CDC's Epidemic Intelligence Service and is currently a Medical Epidemiologist with the Communicable Disease Branch.
