LIVE WEBINAR

THURSDAY
OCT 8, 2020

ZOOM Registration 5:20 pm
Program 5:30 – 8:30 pm

The current COVID crisis has clearly shown health disparities in communities of color and other marginalized communities within North Carolina and nationally. This live webinar will address the challenges North Carolina has faced over the course of the pandemic, highlight cases of patients in marginalized communities with COVID, and explore the history of disparities of care in this country and how that history informs the current crisis. The webinar will explore the factors which predispose communities of color to be disproportionately impacted, and conclude with an interdisciplinary panel focused on developing solutions, providing practical strategies for improving care for marginalized communities and looking at systemic efforts that can address health disparities.

Target Audience

Physicians, Advanced Practice Providers, Nurses, Pharmacist and other health care professionals working with communities of color

Session Topics will Include

- The Case for Concern: Telling Their Stories
- The State of the State: NC in the COVID Crisis
- Roots of the Poison Tree: How Did We Get Here?
- The Chasm: Health Disparities in Marginalized Communities
- After the Handwringing: What Can I Do? An Interdisciplinary Panel Addressing Next Steps
